Job Description

Multiple Locations :

- WEWORK, Unit 1, One, Central Plaza, Dame Street, Dublin 2, D02 K7K5

We are a research institute specialising in the healthcare sector, recognised for the rigour of our methodologies and the relevance of our insights.

Our studies support the strategic decisions of pharmaceutical players.

Based in Dublin, we combine sector expertise and methodological innovation to produce data that truly moves the needle.

We operate across European countries and in the USA.

Our Data and Market Research team is present in several countries.

YOUR MISSION

As a Senior Quantitative Market Researcher, you will manage complex studies from end to end and play a central role in developing our healthcare offer.

You will be the key point of contact for our clients and a methodological pillar for the team.

→ Design and lead large-scale quantitative studies (patient surveys, healthcare professionals, B2B/B2C panels)

→ Develop questionnaires, sampling plans and analysis protocols tailored to healthcare challenges

→ Oversee statistical processing and ensure the quality of deliverables

→ Translate data into actionable strategic recommendations for clients

→ Contribute to business development: responding to tenders, client presentations, upselling

→ Coach and upskill junior team members

THE PROFILE WE ARE LOOKING FOR

→ Minimum 5 years' experience in quantitative research, ideally within an institute

→ Sector expertise in healthcare and pharmaceuticals

→ Proficiency in statistical tools: SPSS, R, or equivalent, and of course AI

→ Strong skills in questionnaire design and multivariate analysis

→ French or another language would be a plus

→ Strong interpersonal skills and client-oriented mindset

→ Autonomy, rigour and ability to manage multiple projects simultaneously

Position available immediately in Dublin
